I am an experienced senior program manager who consistently delivers exceptional projects through critical thinking, problem solving and negotiation. A seasoned project management professional, I assess each project and implement varied tactical approaches to achieve project goals. I invest in understanding the goals and interests of all stakeholders, and work with my team to complete projects successfully on time and on budget.

What truly sets my project management approach apart is my ability to build and lead effective teams. I believe in leading by example to foster a professional environment built on mutual respect and trust. I take the time to build a strong relationship with each team member to better understand how they can effectively contribute to the task at hand. By building strong relationships with all parties, I translate challenging projects into success stories in a way that is both engaging and rewarding.

In my current role as Program Lead, I collaborate with the Data Practice Lead to grow Avantage's data practice. Prior to my time at Avantage, I worked with global powerhouses such as CIBC, Dye & Durham, Teranet and HP amongst others.

When I'm not busy managing projects, you can find me cooking, traveling and spending time with my family.
